John Moreau, a co-founder of our society, was born in Swanton. He spent many years gathering these records from the Nativity BVM and St Louis churches and from other locations. John and his wife Mariette worked together, and after his passing, Mariette was aided by Elaine Riley to finish the data entry. John has added many references from other repertoires in the US and Quebec, plus many other notes based on his personal knowledge of Swanton and Highgate. The Moreau's also compiled many "Border Crossing" records, which are included in the header of this book. We are thankful for their interest and their effort. John has mentioned several times that the 1884-1907 Highgate Marriage book has been lost.

FOREWARD

On 27 January 2004 the VT-FCGS received sole permission from the Presbyteral Council of the Vermont Catholic Diocese to copy and publish the sacramental records of the oldest churches in the Diocese, and VT-FCGS retains the copyright.

These acts were taken from the original records and were accurately transcribed and transposed into the computer database by a group of individuals dedicated to preserving the precious genealogical data. This was done so that those researching their genealogical lineage in the future may locate an available and reliable document for their research. The original church record books are thus preserved from much wear and tear.

Many hours were spent translating early records from Latin and French to English, deciphering the script of many priests who made the entries, and then transcribing the records to the computer database format. Portions of some of the original records defied all efforts but were simply either not legible, or parts of the pages were missing, and they are so noted in the book.

Areas of the original records that were blank are so noted by this symbol: **(…)

Any additional notes made by the priest were entered into the NOTES fields.

Some of our researchers did additional research of the Vermont Vital Records. This data is differentiated from the church records by placing it in parenthesis (xxx)

We have inserted many "see" records into the database for double surnames such as Lacroix and Cross. However not every Lacroix used Cross and not every Cross used Lacroix. If a marriage entry says Lacroix (Cross); then this family did use both, or a marginal entry indicated that they did. Some "see" records cross-reference a widows married name and her maiden name when she remarried.

This index follows diocesan policy concerning the confidentiality of sacramental records. Therefore this index does not contain information about race, legitimacy, adoptions or marriage annulments.

Needless to say, translating and transcribing records as extensive as these were; will result in some errors in spite of all checks and reviews, please forgive us if we erred.

All marriage records are in alphabetical order by Groom and Bride, thereby eliminating the need for an Index of Brides.

SWANTON, VERMONT

SKETCH OF THE CATHOLIC HISTORY OF SWANTON, VERMONT

Reprinted with the permission of the author; Father Romeo Trahan, S.S.E.

This presentation is divided into two major parts. Part One: Missionary Times, and Part Two: Establishment of Nativity Parish with its first resident pastor.

PART ONE
Missionary Times 1685-1854

1. Jurisdictions
a) 1685-1743 Propagation of the Faith
b) 1743-1789 Quebec
c) 1789-1810 Baltimore
d) 1810-1853 Boston
e) 1853- Burlington

On April 8, 1801 Bishop Carroll of Baltimore made a formal agreement with Bishop Deneault of Quebec to care for the French-speaking Catholics across the Vermont border.

2. Indian Catholic History
1685 The French established a short-lived mission at Missisquoi.
1731 The Fort St. Frederic (Crown Point, New York) was built by the French. The Missisquoi Abenakis received their spiritual ministrations from the chaplains at Fort St. Frederic.
1732 Eastern Abenakis, who fled from Maine to escape the English, were relocated at Missisquoi accompanied by a French Jesuit Father, and they erected a palisade.
1675-1740 Gray Lock (La Tete Blanche, The Whitehead).

The name is said to have come from a streak of prematurely white hair. He was an Indian chief at Missisquoi, near Swanton apparently from 1675-1740. His Indian name was Wawenorrawot, meaning "he who fools the others or puts someone off the track." During Cummer's War (1722-1727) he achieved renown for his daring raids against Massachusetts and his elusive tactics. It was at this time that the name Gray Lock replaced his Indian name. Originally, he seems to have belonged to the Waranoke tribe from the Westfield River region of Massachusetts. He lived at one time (1676-1677) at Schaghticoke near the mouth of the Hoosic River, in the Hudson River region. Gray Lock became a Catholic. He was baptized under the name of Pierre-Jean. The records of Fort St. Frederic indicate that he had two children baptized there: Marie-Charlotte, 1737 and Jean-Baptiste, 1740. This latter entry names the father as Pierre-Jean de La Tete Blanche and his wife Helene. Neither the death date nor the grave of Gray Lock is definitely known. Greylock Mountain in the Massachusetts Berkshires was named for him by the descendants of his old enemies. We know that he lived at one time at Gray Lock Castle near Missisquoi Village. Some old maps indicate an "Indian Castle."

1744-1748 Father Etienne Lauverjat, Society of Jesus, was born in 1679 in France, and died in 1761 at Quebec. He took charge of the newly established mission of Missisquoi Village. This mission, created for the Abenakis, was located at the mouth of the Missisquoi River. He had been a missionary in Maine and in the St. Francis Village (Odanak) in the Province of Quebec. Odanak is situated a few miles north of Sorel at the mouth of the St Francis River. Governor Charles de Beauharnois and Intendant Gilles Hocquart of New France had a house built and furnished for him. According to Bishop John Michaud of Burlington, 1899-1908, the Abenakis had a permanent chapel on the Missisquoi River for a good many years. It was near Swanton on the Highgate side of the river, and it was still there when the English settlers came in 1775.

At the same time the Jesuit served "as a mission," the parish of St. Denis, which was at that time planned for the seigneury of Foucault on Missisquoi Bay. The little chapel was actually on the east bank of the Richelieu River and south of Ile-aux-Noix. Father Lauverjat left in 1748 for St. Michel-de-Bellechasse, Que.

About 1759, the French had practically lost the wars against the English. The Abenakis of Missisquoi Village withdrew.

The above-mentioned chapel was dismantled and the materials were used to fortify Fort Ile-aux-Noix. There were about seven French inhabitants in the seigneury of Foucault and a fair number of Abenaki warriors. More details are difficult to find because everything has disappeared. The necessity of a church at Missisquoi Village was acknowledged by the French authorities, but in spite of Swanton local tradition was probably never built. The government was cutting down on expenses because of King George's War. Between 1744-48, most of the Indians evacuated the village, some going to the Montreal missions, possibly Sault-St.-Louis (Caughnawaga, Que.), most retreating to less accessible locations within their homeland. In 1758, during the Seven Years' War (1756-1763) many moved out from Missisquoi to St. Francis (Odanak) and Becancour (Que.), with the warriors taking up residence near Ile-aux-Noix.

In 1759 the sawmill built by Levasseur was dismantled and its machines buried. The Abenakis were baptized at Fort St. Jean. Example: August 9, 1759, Father Eleazar Mauge, Recollect, chaplain of the Fort, baptized Athanase born yesterday, son of Jean-Baptiste Onision, an Abenaki Indian from Missisquoi village. Some Abenakis went also to Chambly (Que.) on the Richelieu River, north of St-Jean.

Until the 1830's the Catholic Abenakis in the Champlain Valley traveled north from their homes in Vermont to St-Luc, St. John, Iberville, Henryville and Lacolle in Que. to ask the ministrations of the clergy.

3. Fanny Allen at Swanton. 1801-1809

Frances Allen, born in 1784, was the daughter of Ethan Allen. Her father died in 1789 at Burlington. Dr. Jabez Penniman became her stepfather in October 1793 in Westminster, VT. In 1801, the family moved to Swanton after the appointment of Jabez as Customs' Collector for Vermont. They occupied what was known as the Ferris place and later on the Taquahunga Club, which burned in 1970 in the Swanton fire.
Fanny went to Montreal to study French with the Congregation of the Notre Dame Sisters. Her parents were agnostics and feared she might become Catholic. They had her baptized by Rev. Daniel Barber, whom they had called in from Claremont, New Hampshire. This was contrary to her will; she laughed and carried on throughout the whole ceremony. Later on she decided to be baptized a Catholic. Father Louis Saulnier, pastor of Notre Dame Church, Montreal, performed the ceremony. Her parents then decided to have her remain in Swanton for a year trying to dissuade her from becoming a nun. Nevertheless she succeeded in joining the Religious Hospitalers of St. Joseph in Montreal in 1808.

4. Itinerant Missionaries 1818-1854

A) Rev. Pierre Mignault: 1818-1854

Father Mignault was pastor of Chambly, Que. from 1817 to 1866. At the same time he worked in northern Vermont as far down as Vergennes at his own expense.

Father Patrick Byrne was sent by Bishop Cheverus, in 1821, to help Father Mignault in the Vermont mission. Their visits would take place mainly in the summer. In 1822, Father Byrne was sent to the Indian missions of Maine. From 1822 to 1830 no other priest from the diocese of Boston is known to have come to Vermont. The devoted Father Mignault continued to serve his fellow countrymen by frequent visits until 1853.

In 1828 Father McGillon from Plattsburgh, N. Y. said the first Mass in what was to become the future Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Parish. The celebration took place in the house of James McNally, which was located on the corner of River Lane and Ferry streets. James McNally was the great-grandfather of Marjory and John McNally of Dunning Street.

B) Rev. Jeremiah O'Callaghan: 1830-1853

Father O'Callaghan was the first full-time missionary in Vermont. He was an Irish priest, from the Diocese of Cork, and took up residence in Burlington in 1830. In 1836, he said Mass in what was to become the first parochial church building in Swanton; this building was built in 1836. In the 1830's, Father O'Callaghan administered the sacraments in various houses in Swanton until a priest was stationed in St. Albans in 1840, at which time Swanton became a mission of St. Albans. Father O'Callaghan was a little fiery, and quick-tempered; but he made up for such defects by his extraordinary energy, his wisdom and foresight. He hated banks, seating money to be taken up in his churches, nor would he accept any fees for services rendered. He subsisted through voluntary collections taken up three times a year.

From 1830 to 1837 his 'parish' was the whole State of Vermont. He also visited Abenaki communities on a periodic basis. His Marriage Records, 1830-1853, are preserved in the Diocesan Archives. Example: January 5, 1839 Hugh McClosky married Catherine Barney in Swanton. Witnesses Francis and Sarah Barney.

C) Rev. Auguste Petithomme, SS.CC. 1834-1835

Regardless of his name "Petithomme", this missionary from France, was a strong man. He was sent to Burlington by Bishop Fenwick of Boston. He bought a horse in Canada and, got around on horseback. If Father Petithomme could not find a godparent, he would assume the duty himself. We know of ten baptisms that he performed in Swanton during the year 1834. The original documents are at St. Joseph's rectory, Burlington; photocopies of these are with our parish records at present. The following are the names of the baptized: Damas Mayen, George Coulombre, Birgitte Coulombre, Charles Rober, Jean Cormier, Francois Cormier, Marie Cormier, Gedeon ? Colou, Charles Lamber (sic). These records are in French. None of the parents nor sponsors knew how to sign their names. On October 5, 1835, Father Petithomme was asked to leave Burlington and work among the Penobscot Indians in Maine. He had baptized 112 children in the Lake Champlain area and prepared 114 youngsters to receive First Communion. He hated to leave Vermont because he was attached to his people. Moreover he only spoke French and always found it difficult to learn Indian languages.

In 1835, after Father Petithomme left, Fathers Patrick O'Beirne and Peter Connolly successively took charge of the Vermont northern missions for brief periods, (1835-1836).

D) The First Parish Church Building in Swanton: 1836

The faithful of Swanton, small as were their numbers, decided to build a church, where they might assemble on Sundays for prayer and mutual edification, and in the fond hope that at some future day their Bishop would be enabled to provide them, at least occasionally, with the service of a clergyman. They erected a little brick edifice of thirty by forty feet. Here, in 1836, Rev. Father O'Callaghan offered Mass. The prime movers of this enterprise were James and Henry McNally, Charles O'Kane, Frederick Arnault, James Birney and a few others. Mr. Fregeau, called LaPlante, was the contractor.

This first church was erected on the north side of Canada Street on the site of the present church, (which was built in 1925 and dedicated in 1926). The present church is the third one, since the second one 1859-1926 (demolished in 1937) was across the street from the present one. James McNally gave land and a portion of the materials for the first church, and others contributed equally according to their means.

Besides Father O'Callaghan the following priests also served occasionally in Swanton until 1854 when Father Louis Lionnet became the first resident pastor; Fathers Richard Waters, LeClaire, Francois Ance, William Ivers, George Hamilton. A handwritten note at the bottom of page 257 of Father Fitton's book indicates that Father Richard Waters lived one or two years in a log house in Swanton near Dunning Street. He died April 28, 1850.

Father George Hamilton became the first resident pastor of St. Mary’s, St. Albans, in 1847. He came from the Diocese of St. Louis, Missouri and was appointed by Bishop John Bernard Fitzpatrick, the third Bishop of Boston. The principal names involved in obtaining this appointment were: William Henry Hoyt, a former Episcopal rector in St. Albans, who had been received in the Catholic Church in Montreal, in 1846, and James McNally of Swanton. Father Hamilton, seeing the first church of Swanton finished and beautified, dedicated it to God and assigned to it the name of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin in 1847. Bishop Fitzpatrick came from Boston by Lake Champlain in 1848 to visit Vermont. He was the first to administer Confirmation in Swanton that same year.

Father Hamilton left St. Albans in 1849 for Charlestown Mass.; where he built St. Francis de Sales Church atop Bunker Hill. His immediate successor in St. Albans was Father Thomas Shahan, who was succeeded by Father Edward McGowan in 1850. When the first church was built in 1836, there were about 40 Catholic families and 100 people attending Mass.

E) The Patriots' War: 1837-1838

During the Patriots' War, Swanton was a rallying point for the rebellious Canadians. History counts from 150 to 300 in Swanton at one given time. They were French-Canadians, and mostly Catholic. All did not settle here permanently; no doubt many went back to Canada after the hostilities.

5. Establishment of the Diocese of Burlington 1853

In 1852 the First Plenary Council of Baltimore petitioned Rome to name the Very Rev. Louis de Goesbriand first bishop of Burlington. The Diocese was formally erected by Papal Brief July 29, 1853. The Bishop was bom August 4, 1816 at St. Urbain, Brittany, France. He studied at Saint Sulpice, Paris, was ordained in Paris by the Bishop of St. Louis Missouri, and did parochial work in the Diocese of Cincinnati. He was assigned to Cleveland, Ohio, where his friend, Amadeus Rappe was made Bishop of the Diocese. Louis de Goesbriand was ordained bishop October 30, 1853 at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City by Archbishop Cajetan Bedini, Nuncio to Brazil.

By 1852 there were five priests and ten Catholic Churches in Vermont. Swanton was not yet a parish, but it had its church. St. Albans, Swanton, Highgate and Fairfield were all cared for by Father Edward McGowan of St. Albans. Bishop de Goesbriand retired in 1892 and died in 1899. He was a humble and simple man. His patrimony was placed as high as a quarter million dollars; but he spent it for the Diocese. When he died his pocket contained all his personal wealth - two dollars and twelve cents.

PART TWO

Establishment of Nativity Parish with its first resident pastor

Father Louis Lionnet: 1854-1858

First resident priest: Louis Lionnet, born in France; came from Oregon, where he had been a missionary for eight years. He brought a little Indian boy with him in 1854. He sometimes went to Alburg; but also administered Highgate 1856-1858. He opened the first parochial school in 1857. It was the second one in the state. There were about 100 French and Irish families in the parish. The registers begin with him. Because of poor health he returned to France May 16,1858.

Father Jean-Louis Cam 1858-1895

Born in Brittany France, 1831. He officiated the first time in Swanton, May 5, 1858. On December 24, the church burned down before Midnight Mass. A new church was built across the street where the present parking lot is. The contractor was Norbert Clement. It was opened November 1, 1859. It was of Gothic architecture measuring 72 by 40 feet. The cost was two thousand, four hundred and twenty dollars. Father Cam also had charge of Alburgh 1858-1871, and of Highgate 1858-1886. The enclosure surrounding the church was the parish cemetery for many years.

In 1873, St. Anne's School was built and blessed by Bishop Amadeus Rappe, a retired bishop of Cleveland, liv-ing in Alburgh and Isle LaMotte. He had paid practically all the expenses. The first teachers were the Daughters of the Heart of Mary, 1873-1903. The Daughters of the Holy Spirit followed them in 1903.

According to oral tradition. Father Cam lived in different houses before his last residence on Canada Street on the location of the present church. He would have lived, for instance, on Platt Street, where Gilbert Young resides. Jeannette Medor also says that Father Cam lived in the house she occupies with her brother, Royal Brow, on Liberty Street.

Father Cam led a very frugal life. For some years he had no furniture, not even a stove. He slept in a large armchair and wrapped up in his coat. He ate at a neighbor's house. Later, an elderly couple moved in. After Sunday Mass he would travel on foot with his lunch either to Highgate or Alburgh to preach, hear confessions, or teach catechism. In 1887, he fell on the ice between his house and the church. He remained lame the rest of his life. While he was laid up, some parishioners took advantage of the situation. They wallpapered the walls, brought in a stove, and laid down rugs in spite of his strong opposition to all these innovations. When larger grounds were needed for the cemetery, Father Cam purchased a lot where the present cemetery is located. In 1893 the total parish income was one thousand three hundred six dollars and fifty-six cents. Father Cam left Swanton November 10,1895 to become chaplain at the Fanny Allen Hospital. He died in 1903, and is buried in St. Joseph's Cemetery, near Archibald and North Prospect Streets in Burlington. The Parish of Swanton erected a commemorative plaque, in his honor, in the church near the east side entrance.

The Edmundites take charge: 1895

The first Edmundite pastor was Father Theophile Aubin. He arrived from France at Keeler's Bay, South Hero, in 1893, where the Fathers had already opened their first mission in North America in 1891. It was discontinued in 1894 and Father Aubin served as curate at Holy Angels in St. Albans. The community was then known under the name of Oblates of the Sacred Heart, instead of the Society of St. Edmund (S.S.E.). Father Aubin built a three-story house for the Edmundites a little north of the present church. The contractor was Louis Gauthier, and the plumbing contract was allocated to Napoleon Nolan. The two contracts amounted to one thousand three hundred fifty-eight dollars in all. The Edmundites took on the expenses, since the building was also to serve their own educational purpose. In 1896, a substantial addition was made to St. Anne's School; a second floor was added, which contained Columbia Hall with a 400 seating capacity. In 1897, the Ladies of St. Anne were founded in the parish. That same year, Father Aubin had St. Anthony's chapel built at Swanton (Fonda) Junction, east of the Central Vermont Railroad tracks, on the Lime Kiln Road. John Penell donated the land. It also served as a regular Catholic school for forty students.

In 1898 a Juniorate (minor seminary) was opened in the Edmundite House. The first students were boys from Swanton. Later they came from various states and Canada. Due to a scarcity of members, the Daughters of the Heart of Mary left St. Anne's in 1903. The Daughters of the Holy Spirit came from France that same year, due in part to the Persecution Laws in their own country. This was their first school in the United States. They arrived July 10, 1903. Sister Leonie was the first superior. Father Aubin met them. He encouraged the Ladies of St. Anne to be very good to them. They numbered seven sisters. Their house was dilapidated. They did not even have enough water to launder their clothes. For a period of three years they had to go to a neighbor's house to do that chore. In 1903, Father Aubin, S.S.E. was transferred to England and replaced by Father Ernest Salmon, S.S.E. The first American recruit for the sisters was Marie Pinell. She went to Hartford, Connecticut in January 1906. During the first year, 1903, Sisters Octave and Anne-Melanie worked at the Edmundite house in the kitchen. The same year, Sister Armelle joined her blood sister, Sister Abel.

Father Ernest Salmon was interim pastor. He also came from France. In 1904 the school at St. Anthony's Chapel in Swanton Junction was closed. Nevertheless, Mass was said every month, and religion taught every Saturday, by a Sister of the Holy Spirit. Father Aubin resumed his office as pastor in 1906.

Father Aubin returned to Swanton as pastor. In 1909 the religious exercises for the Tercentenary Observances of the discovery of Lake Champlain in Swanton took place in the Church of the Nativity. Governor George H. Prouty was in attendance. After Mass two processions started for the site of the old Jesuit Mission, about two miles down the River, one overland from the Church and the other, consisting of canoes and boats by water. Msgr. Cloarec, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Burlington, blessed and dedicated the monument marking the spot of the Indian Mission. Some of the young ladies of St. Anne's school participating in the unveiling ceremonies were; May Loiselle, Alice Penell, Edith O'Leary, Mary Loukes, Anna Savoy, Alice Ouimette and Loza Barrette. The overall organizing committee for the Tercentenary Observances in Swanton was composed of Dr. C. F. Allen, E. T. Bradley and Father Aubin.

In 1909, a group of parish ladies were asked to assume the responsibility of caring for the altar in church. They had been called the "Ladies of St. Monica", but voted to be henceforth called the Altar Society. The first officers were; Mrs. Mary J.Farrell, Mrs. Ambrose Carr, Mrs. P. J. Farrell, and Mrs. George Loiselle. In 1910, St. Anne's Academy was approved by the Vermont Educational Department at Montpelier and the New York State Regents.

Father Ernest Salmon 1914-1920

In February 1915, the church was closed for three Sundays owing to a severe smallpox epidemic. In June, a statewide convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters took place in Swanton. The governor attended and numerous clergymen were present. In a letter dated April 16, 1916, Bishop Rice attached the territory of Highgate Springs to the Swanton parish. In 1916, Father Peter Nolin was ordained priest. He was born in Swanton in 1888. For many years he was pastor of Springfield, VT. He died in 1969. During World War One the parochial census shows 465 families, with a population of 2,105. Unfortunately an influenza epidemic broke out and the church was closed from September 20 to November 10. Seventeen funerals were held, due to influenza. After the war, the ammunition factory closed down, and by 1919, 300 persons had moved out of the parish.

Father Victor Nicolle: 1920-1937

A men's club called the "Swanton Catholic Club," was organized in 1921. It was located over the P. Wood store. The purpose of the club was both recreational and educational.

St. Anne's Academy reached its highest enrollment since its foundation, 409 pupils, in 1927. Columbia Hall was then divided into classrooms.

In 1922, Father Edmund Hamel, S.S.E., a native of Swanton, was ordained to the priesthood. He had been baptized by Father L. Cam in 1895. He spent all his life at St. Michael's as a philosophy professor. He died in 1971.

The present church was planned and built during 1922-26. Father Nicolle met with difficulties in getting plans according to the means of the parish and the desires of Bishop Rice. The architect, Beaugrand Champagne, and the contractor, Joseph Denis, were both from Montreal. The contract with Mr. Denis was signed November 16, 1924 for the sum of $72,265, not including heating and lighting. The edifice was completed in 1926, when Mass was said in it July 18. Father Nicolle was an energetic and dedicated man. During his pastorate he was also Provincial Superior of the Edmundites (1919-30), and Superior General (1930-46). During these same years he was also teaching theology. In 1946 he returned to France, his native country, where he died in 1959 after thirteen more years of pastoral work.

Father William Jeanmarie, S.S.E., 1937-1949

Father Jeanmarie was the first American-born and the first native of Swanton to become pastor of the Church of the Nativity. All his predecessors were natives of France. He was bom in 1882 and ordained in 1907. He became president of St. Michael's College, 1919-1931; and administrator of St. Louis Parish, Highgate Center, 1931-34 while residing in Swanton. During his pastorate the old church, built in 1859 across the street from the present one, was demolished in 1937. It had been closed since 1926 when the present one was opened. Edwin Campbell died accidentally in the demolition process. Fathers Ernest Simard, S.S.E. and Romeo Trahan, S.S.E., both born in Swanton and ordained Edmundites in 1944 and 1945, respectively, said their first Masses in the Church of the Nativity. June 6,1949, Father Jeanmarie died at Fanny Allen Hospital.

Father Oliva Langlois, S.S.E., 1950-1956

The Diocese of Burlington celebrated its centennial in 1953. Two historical pageants were held; one in Burlington, the other in Rutland. A group of young parishioners represented the St. Francis Tribe of the Abenaki Indians. They were: Claire and Evelyn Chevalier, Patricia and Jacqueline Trahan, Juliette Labier, Marguerite Raleigh, Roger Livingston, Donald Moreau, John Paxman, Robert Thibault, Albert Lauzon, David Therrien, Samuel Evanson, Clarence Duprey; David Mercier, and Gilbert Gagne represented the Jesuit priests.

Building and Remodeling: 1954-55

During Father Langlois' administration St. Anne's Academy had become too small and very uneconomical to maintain. A new twelve-room elementary school with an all-purpose hall with stage and adjoining kitchen was built for approximately $145,000. The old St. Anne's was then razed. Michael Devaney was hurt when a wall collapsed on him. St. Anne's high school moved into the Edmundite residence. The sisters lived in the front part and the classrooms were in the rear. While this former Edmundite residence was being remodeled, the sisters were dispersed in various religious communities. In the meantime, a new rectory was being built by a local contractor, Kenneth Douglas. Father Langlois and his assistant Father John Chevalier lived and boarded with Hector Trahan, 53 Canada Street.

In 1956, Father Langlois was transferred to a bilingual parish, St. Anastase in Greenfield Park, Que., and Father Chevalier to the Black Mission of St. Martin of Porres, Gadsden, Alabama.

Daughters of the Holy Spirit, 1903-1979

In 1978 they celebrated their 75th anniversary at Nativity Parish. It was a grand homecoming for the nuns who had taught here and their former students, since the Alumni Association had organized a convention for the occasion.

St. Anne's High School was closed in 1969. The convent and high school building was demolished and the sisters were residing at 10 Second Street. In 1979, the Daughters of the Holy Spirit moved from the parish. Their headquarters is in Putnam, Connecticut. The parish sold the house on Second Street. An Ursuline nun, Sister Joan Sirtowt, O.S.U., arrived in 1979 to coordinate the religious education program. She was assisted by Sister Mary Ellen Theriault, O.S.U.. They both live in Highgate Center. The order is commonly known as the Blue Point (N. Y.) Ursuline Sisters.

2. Parish Organizations, Associated Groups

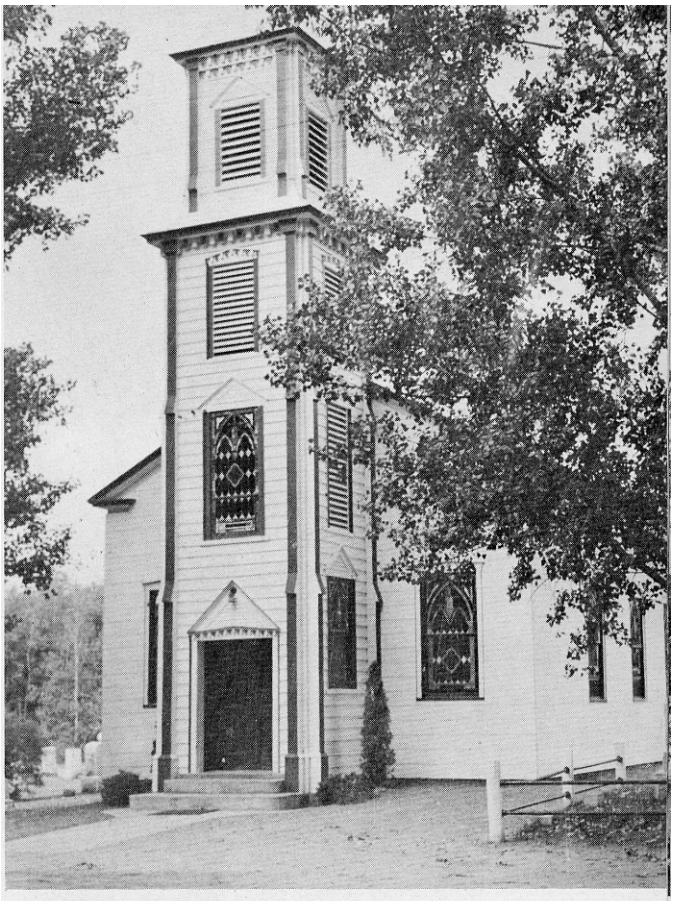

The following list includes some societies that existed certainly before 1956. In the course of time, some have ceased to function, others have changed their names. St. Agnes Guild (Children of Mary); Ladies of St. Anne, 1897; Altar Society, 1907; Junior Altar Society (for school girls); Confraternity of the Holy Rosary. 1905; Holy Name Society; Parish Council and its Liturgy, Religious, Education, Social Action, and Stewardship Committees, Youth Club, Cursillistas, Charismatics, Catholic Order of Foresters, Catholic Men's Club, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique, Knights of Columbus, St. Anne's Alumni, Religious Education.

3. Property Upkeep and Improvements

After Vatican Council II (1965), the furnishings in the sanctuary of the church were rearranged to comply with the new liturgical requirements. Some of the principal changes were: the relocation of the main altar so the priest could say Mass facing the congregation and the tabernacle being placed in a side alcove.

A major relic of St. Edmund of Canterbury (his forearm) was enshrined in the church. St. Edmund, bom in England, c.1170, died in France c. 1240. He is the patron saint of the Edmundites.

St Louis Church
HIGHGATE CENTER, VT

St. Louis Church

Some thirty Catholics made up the congregation for the first Mass offered here in 1831 by Rev. Jeremiah O'Callaghan. This place was attended from St. Albans until 1855, and from Swanton thereafter until the assignment of Rev. Joseph Turcot as first resident pastor in 1886. Purchased from the Congregationalists in 1849 and moved to its present location, St. Louis church was named after the saintly King of France; the moving was directed by parishioner Adam Christie, father of Archbishop Christie of Oregon. A cemetery and attractive country rectory complete the parish property. A parochial school was operated here during the pastorate of Rev. Patrice-Raoul Gauthier, but fire destroyed the edifice and attempts to rebuild seemed unwarranted.

About the Swanton & Highgate Records

NOTE: The Swanton marriages were published several years ago.

Note: The records placed in this book reflect the church records to our best ability to read them. We encourage you to verify them with the Town and State Vital Records.

The information in between parenthesis (xxx) reflects additional pertinent information gathered by researchers from town, state, or personal family records. The source is given in the NOTE field.

Lines with blank information are not printed; such as Baptism, Residence, & Notes.

When only 1 residence is listed in a record, its fair to assume that it is the residence of both the Bride and Groom.

Many "See" records have been inserted in order to guide you to other records for this person or family. They may indicate a family that used multiple names, or a mothers family using multiple names, or a widow remarrying. In general, if you find a complimenting "See" record (Lacross see Lacroix, and Lacroix see Lacross), the family used both names, else it is probably a widow remarrying.

The Baptism records have 479 'SEE' records. They point to other records with a different surname, but who appear to be the same family. Sometimes the priest entered Billard, sometimes Biar or Bior, and sometimes he entered Beyor or Bejor. We have no way of telling what name the family actually used, and it may have split into 2 or 3 different surnames.

The Marriage records contain only a few 'SEE' records. I suggest you use the Baptism 'SEE' records as a reference for the marriages. Some see records are due to 'dit' names such as the Tiriac dit Laforest which also changed to Laforet and Lafarr.
Some may occur when a woman remarried and both names were mentioned in the record.

John Moreau gathered other records into his database. When he found a Swanton / Highgate family which had a baptism in Burlington, or Isle La Motte Vermont or in Henryville, Laprairie, Standbridge or St Armand Quebec; he pulled it into his database, which we are presenting in this book.

John and Mariette Moreau compiled many Border Crossings for the Swanton, Highgate and Burlington areas, plus a few in other towns. These are very valuable to the genealogist because they trace the family across the border and into Quebec, which can sometimes be very difficult.

Following are 15 pages of these valuable records.
